HIGHLY COMMENDED

Privately owned Surrey based developers, Croudace Homes, was awarded a prestigious Highly Commended in a competition to find the “best new family home with up to five bedrooms”. The accolade was won at the London Evening Standard New Homes Awards 2011 hosted at The Dorchester hotel and the winning house-type was The Baroque, a four bedroom detached property at Priory Gardens, a development in Monks Risborough.

The entries were judged by a panel of property industry experts and reader judges who scored each home on various criteria including location, plans, design and specification. The awards champion excellence across the housing spectrum and The Baroque held its own against properties priced several times higher. Managing Director, Russell Denness, says “We are delighted to have won this commendation in recognition of the quality of our in-house design and specification. This particular family home has proved extremely popular over a number of years on several of our previous developments.”
